7. Provision of scientific or technical consultants with expertise in relevant scientific disciplines
8. Development and implementation of novel tools and informatics approaches
9. Program management

The DRAFT Statement of Work (SOW) has been attached for reference purposes and includes additional requirement details.

PLACE OF PERFORMANCE

TBD

ESTIMATED PERIODS OF PERFORMANCE

The anticipated Period of Performance is ten (10) years (a base year with nine (9) option years) with an estimated start date of May 2027.

3 BACKGROUND

3.1 PROGRAM INFORMATION

The National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences (NIEHS), located in the Research Triangle Park, North Carolina, is one of the 27 Institutes and Centers comprising the National Institutes of Health (NIH). The NIEHS is a multidisciplinary research institution with the primary mission of conducting research to discover how the environment influences the development and progression of human disease in order to promote healthier lives. NIEHS focuses on basic science, disease-oriented research, global environmental health, clinical research, and multidisciplinary training for researchers.

The Division of Translational Toxicology (DTT) is an intramural division of the NIEHS, NIH. DTT uses traditional and cutting-edge approaches to better understand how factors in the environment may impact human health. Such approaches include using scientific expertise to identify, collect, analyze, and interpret diverse types of information relevant to the effects of environmental exposures on human health. Information from the fields of toxicology, epidemiology, chemistry, data science, informatics, pathology, and other disciplines is used in the design of research programs; in literature-based health assessments; and in the development of novel tools and informatics approaches.

3.2 CURRENT CONTRACT

This is not a new requirement. The original contract (GS00Q14OADU417 Order No. HHSN273201600015U) was awarded in 2016 to ICF Incorporated, LLC, as a R&D Cost Plus Fixed Fee Level of Effort contract, procured under full and open competition. This award included a base period, multiple option periods, and an optional 6-month extension in accordance with FAR 52.217-8, for a total contract period of performance of 10.5 years. A subsequent sole-source bridge contract (75N96025C00003) was awarded in 2025 to ICF Incorporated, LLC, to extend the length of the contract. This award includes a base period, option period, and an optional 6-month extension in accordance with FAR 52.217-8, for a total contract period of performance of 2 years.
