5.0 REASON for AUTHORITY CITED:

BACKGROUND: Tobyhanna Army Depot (TYAD) uses two (2) IRN60HP-OF air compressors and three (3) SSR-EPE200-2S air compressors to produce breathable air in five (5) buildings on the depot. Currently, TYAD is down to one (1) working compressor of each model.

Any other brand or model compressor will require modification of air lines, electrical conduits, or duct work in all 5 buildings for compatibility with the units. This will cause a substantial duplication of costs and unacceptable delays, and cause a high risk of total work stoppage if the only 2 units left that are in working condition were to shutdown prior to completion of the modifications needed for a different brand or model. This would displace hundreds of employees from their designated workspaces, separate them from immovable equipment and machinery, and potentially bring all work production in these buildings to a complete halt, adding to the mounting duplication of costs and unacceptable delays.

Since the nonworking compressors are the same brand and models as the requested purchase, the current structure of air lines, electrical conduits, and duct work are 100% compatible, significantly reducing risks of production loss and eliminating unnecessary additional costs.

These two compressors feed the tool air (oil-flooded) and breathable air (oil-free) for Building [REDACTED] Building [REDACTED] Building [REDACTED] Building [REDACTED] and Building [REDACTED]. If these units aren't replaced, the air system could shut down resulting in unacceptable safety risks to all employees that work in the affected buildings, as well as cause a complete work stoppage of all production.
