1. Description of Need

The project at Detroit River International Wildlife Refuge will repair a failed compressor. This repair is required to maintain cooling needs of the visitor center. Not cooling the building will create unsafe employee conditions and the visitor center will be closed to visitors.

2. Market Research Conducted

The HVAC system at the Detroit River International Wildlife Refuge Visitor Center is a Daikin system comprised of 3 outdoor Condensers, 18 Ceiling Cassettes, 7 FCU (Fan Coil Units), and 2 ERV Energy Recovery/DOAS/Dedicated outside air systems. Proper management of this Daikin system is key in the lifespan of all components.

Daikin's website shows there are at least 3 potential vendors nearby that could service the system.

3. Other Capable Sources

There are several Daikin authorized representatives who can perform repairs on the HVAC system. All authorized representatives who meet the requirements as stated in the solicitation will be considered for award. Prime contractors mainly subcontracting the work will be required to provide the name of their subcontractor.

4. Barriers to Competition

Future requests that do not require a Daikin authorized representative or parts will be competed as required by the FAR.

5. Contractor's Qualifications

Offeror shall be an authorized Daikin Representative, small business (as determined by NAICS code 238220), and registered in SAM.gov.

6. Determination of Fair and Reasonable Cost
